Substitute Guide

Running out of a specific spice while cooking can be frustrating. Here are some common substitutions you can use:

- Cumin: You can use coriander or chili powder instead of cumin. For a smokier flavor, a dash of smoked paprika also works well.
- Cardamom: A mixture of equal parts cinnamon and nutmeg can replace cardamom in baking recipes.
- Mace: Nutmeg is the best direct substitute for mace, as they come from the same plant.
- Cloves: Allspice or cinnamon can be used if you are out of ground cloves.
